THE 1955

Grego

Presented by

FREMONT GRADE SCHOOL
Fremont, North Carolina

Foreword

In this our first issue of GREGO we have tried faithfully to represent "this ole house," its inhabitants, and their activities. In the years to come we hope that this book will help you to reminisce and experience anew the fun and happiness of your school days.

Dedication

MRS. W. F. YELVERTON

We, the 1955 annual staff, gratefully dedicate this, our first edition of GREGO, to Mis' Anne.

She has played an important role in our lives, for her patience, love, and understanding guidance have reached all of us.

"To know her is to love her."

Superintendent's Message

J. R. PEELER

Greetings From the Superintendent:

It gives me great pleasure to offer greetings to the Senior Class and the rest of the student body in this the first edition of the Grego; and I commend you for the publication of a yearbook from which you will receive great satisfaction now and in future years.

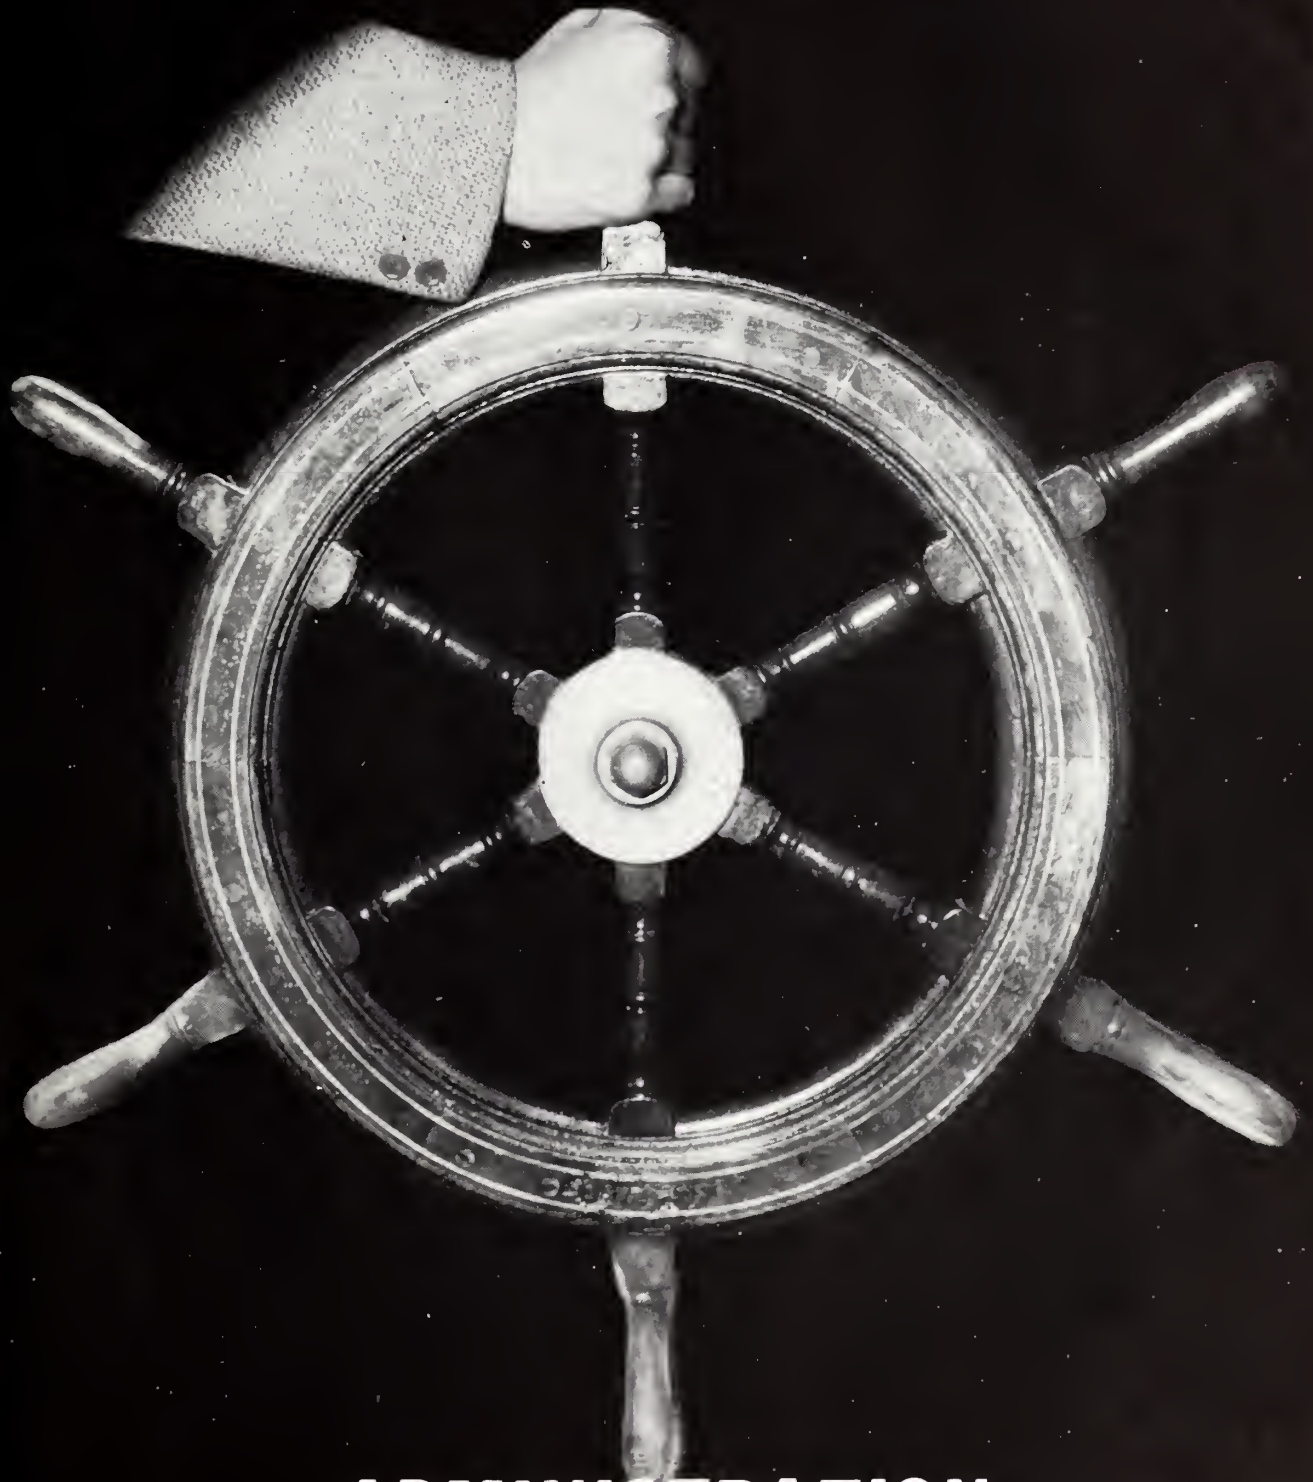

We, of the administration and faculty, have a wonderful pride in our student body. We think that you are the best. May you continue to display your good attitude toward your teachers, the administration, and your fellow-students.

Few schools can boast of the rich history and the proud traditions of the Fremont School. This fine heritage should guide you to always do your best.

I am wishing for you the best of everything.

Sincerely,

J. R. Peeler

Last Will and Testament

We, the 1955 graduating class of Fremont High School, supposedly of sound mind and good character, do hereby make and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament.

To the school we leave an Escalator.

To Mr. Peeler we leave a peaceful school.

To the senior class sponsor, Miss Byrd, we leave peace of mind along with a bottle of aspirin.

To the Juniors we leave the dignity of being Seniors.

To the Sophomores we leave our abundant supply of energy.

To the Freshmen we leave our intellectual ways.

Rudy Edmundson leaves his quiet and easy ways to his brother, Donald.

Mary Lou Lewis leaves her calm, cool and collected ways to Peggy Mozingo.

John Russell Wiggs leaves his collection of jokes to Henry Cuddington.

Annette Jessup leaves her Colgate smile to Pete Sasser.

Sylvia Flowers leaves her giggle and laugh to Clara Lou Peacock so that there will be someone left to laugh at the teachers' jokes.

Lou Ellen Flowers leaves her "know how" on getting out of classes to Harold Davis.

Bates Peacock leaves one redhead for Serena Futrelle, but takes the other with her for future use.

Hubert Corbin leaves his laziness to William Moore.

Dorothy Crocker leaves her "nose for news" to next year's gossip editor.

Linda Hooks leaves with Dorothy.

Donald Mooring regretfully leaves Linda Turlington.

George Mayo leaves his pocket dictionary to Bobby Suggs.

Ann Alcroft leaves her ability to clear any street in Fremont to anyone who doesn't value his driver's license.

Claire Pike bequeaths her promptness to Fremont High School as an example of what all conscientious students should do.

Bobby Ray Proctor leaves his car to Mary Lucy Peacock in hopes that she derives great pleasure in its fast pick-up.

Betsy Hooks leaves her cows to Mr. Clark to supplement his HEMO supply.

Olivia Edmundson leaves her mania for cheering State College to victory to another ardent fan, Linda Turlington.

Linda Bogue leaves in a cloud of dust in her "merry Oldsmobile."

Ellen Aycock leaves her air mail stamps to any junior who falls for a soldier.

Bobby Floars leaves his book, HOW TO DYE YOUR HAIR IN THREE EASY LESSONS, to the library.

Shirley Davis leaves the roar of her voice echoing in the halls of Fremont High.

Shelby Jean Pope leaves her bookkeeping book to Mrs. Peeler in hopes that she understands it better than she does.

Leonidas Newsome does leave--at last.

Russell Davis leaves his place in the Rhythm Masters Quartet to Carl Benton.

Sherwood Peacock leaves the following statement: "I, Sherwood Peacock, regret that I have nothing to leave, but need all I have and then some.

The Senior members of the basketball team leave future members skates so that they can roll instead of run around the gym.

George Mayo and Bobby Floars leave their singing ability to Harold Davis and Henry Cuddington.

Ann Alcroft and Shirley Davis leave their cheerleading uniforms to Annette Toler and Bonnie Peacock.

Dorothy Crocker and Linda Hooks leave their ability to get up other people's bookkeeping to Peggy Chase.

At last, but not least, the Seniors of '55 leave in body but not in spirit.

When Coach Jay Clark, serving his first year in Fremont, greeted the 54-55 Lady Hornets, he was well-pleased with prospects for a successful season. With several veterans returning along with an outstanding crop of newcomers to back them, the girls, have, therefore, compiled a 14 won 1 loss record. If they continue their display of hustle and team work, there is a great possibility of winning the conference championship.

Coach Jay Clark had his work set out for him in getting the Hornets molded into a smooth operating team. With only two Seniors the Hornets have improved consistently as the season progressed. The Hornets are holding their own this year and with many returning lettermen back next year they should be conference contenders.
